STEELS CREEK COMMUNITY NOTES - NO. 145 June - July

'FIND OUT WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE VALLEY' www.steelscreek.vic.au

Steels Creek under lockdown.

How well do you know your fungi?

With all the lovely rain we have had, this array of Bracket, Gill, Coral and Puffball fungi have shown their beautiful heads along Roberts Road, Tuan Track and Henry's track - Christmas Hills. Not only are they beautiful but they help break down old wood, so keep your distance! - Kaye McRae

Message From the SCCC President

Maree Rothwell

Hello Screekians,

I hope everyone is doing ok, in these Covid-19 days. The committee is certainly looking forward to the centre being used again… after all that's what it is for.

The SCCC committee are currently waiting for the Shire of Yarra Ranges to confirm a reopening date along with publishing the guidelines of operation within the Covid-19 environment.

We understand that everyone wants to get back but we need to ensure we are providing a safe space for the community.

The committee will use this time to ensure the recent works at the centre are completed.

The centre has been restumped, internal painting works have been completed. The repair and repainting of cabinets and windows are still works in progress

Many thanks to all the groups who have completed a decluttering of the storage spaces.

The garden has also had a good cut back and clear up.

Time certainly hasn't been wasted.

Reopening information will be published on our Steels Creek Facebook page as well as on The Grapevine.

Looking forward to seeing everyone back at SCCC. Until then stay safe and well.

xMaree

A Beloved Place

Sandra Dmello

Tread lightly on my soil
For I have been here for a while

A million years now everyday
I have watched the early morning rays
Sweep past wispy clouds of purple hue
And melt the honey drops of dew
On kangaroo paws and bottle brush
Food from the Gods for the spotted thrush

Where nature and nurture dwell in peace
And birdsong drifts through sashaying leaves
Neath the mighty gum tree canopy
Lies a unique and precious bounty

The native roos they swiftly hop
Across the roads they do not stop
The wombats they are mighty slow
What danger lurks they do not know

You know that spring is in the air
As you walk past orange blossom fair
See nature at its very best
When birds and bees are full of zest

Snow drops and crocuses pierce the ground
Making way for irises and daffodils loud
Then waves of blue and purple pass
With Lily of the Valley last

This tireless awakening of the earth song
Gives way to cooling autumnal fog
And I come to final fruition
With sweet scented Daphne in profusion

I must now rest and recuperate
Allow my soul to hibernate
Neath the brilliant stars of the Milky-way
I rest my head on scented hay

Watch the rise and fall of the blushing moon
Hesitate and hide for its too soon
To bathe the twilight creatures of the night
In its glorious radiant light

Be guardians of this land so pure
For storm and fire it must endure
Tread lightly, leave your sprays behind
In nature there is no pause or rewind

GET OUT THERE! Exploring our local environment and nearby places with Peta Whitford.

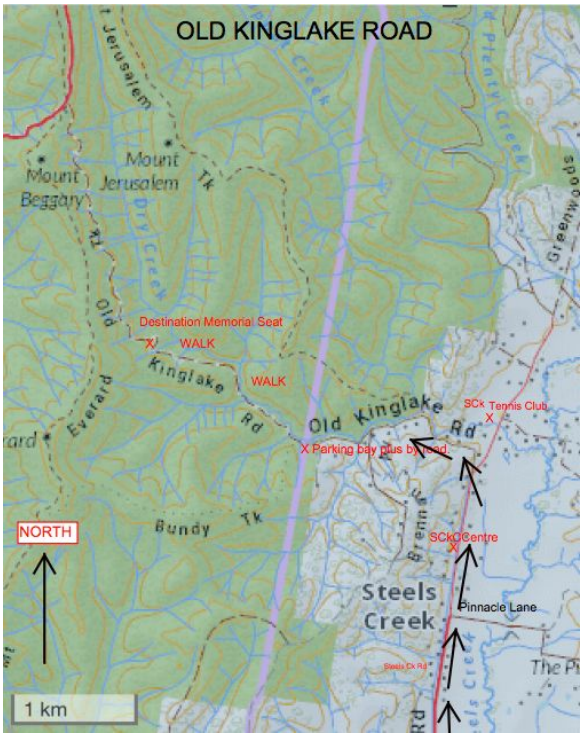
Walk #10, Old Kinglake Road to the Memorial Seat



Walk distance 3.6km moderate pace approx. Time 1 hr
What to take? Water, light snack, walking pole(s) optional. Wear shoes with good tread.

The 'Old Kinglake Road' walk takes you into the Kinglake National Park along the now 'closed' road which used to allow for vehicle access to Kinglake.

How to get there? From Yarra Glen, take Steels Creek Road for 7.4km, at the "Y" intersection with the Old Kinglake Road veer to the left. Follow this good gravel road for 1.8km to the parking area and padlocked gate.

Where to start? The car park area is very small allowing up to 5 cars to be parked. There is walking/ bike/ horse access beside the padlocked gate. Immediately you will sight a detailed map of this walk, plus options to extend the walk a) up to the Heidelberg/Kinglake Rd, b) a + turn south and walk the old 4WD track south over Mt Beggary, Mt Everard and then return downhill via Bundys Track.

The Walk
The walk follows the old road north, is wide and firm underfoot with frequent large spoon drains across it where any overflow of storm water may occur. This is good because the surface of the road is well maintained, easy to walk. The climb is very gradual and is ideal for beginner walkers or mixed ability groups. The vegetation is thick making for a well shaded walk. Below the road the land is steep down to the creek. It can often be heard before it is seen! Take time to look and listen. The pink 'Common Heath' was out on my recce walk (late May), this is the floral emblem of Victoria. After 1.8km the road swings to the left and immediately on your left are three stone steps up to - a lovely stone 'memorial' seat (see photo). Take time to rest, to enjoy a snack and read the plaque.

The Memorial Seat
The aim of this walk is to visit the memorial seat built after the 2009 Black Saturday Fires to let us remember especially two Steels Creek couples, the Aherns and Barnetts, who lost their lives in this wonderful valley they chose to call their home.

The downhill return walk is very easy and allows you to take in more of the views, trees, plants, rock formations as you walk briskly back to the start!

From the intrepid local explorer! Peta Whitford

Steels Creek Art Group

Malcolm Calder

The art group hopes to resume Thursday afternoon art group, pending confirmation with the Council. Yarra Ranges is not yet opening public halls or Community houses. As we don't fall into either category we are waiting for the Shire of Yarra Ranges to confirm a reopening date along with publishing the guidelines of operation within the Covid-19 environment.
We are looking forward to getting back! - Updates will be posted in The Grapevine

Steels Creek Book Group Review

Julie Riddell

April - Stay With Me by Ayobami Adebayoe

We wrote our own reviews about this book, and emailed them to each other. The story has a Nigerian setting, which made an interesting change from our usual reading. A young modern couple who are trying to conceive a baby get swept up in a mixture of traditional Nigerian customs and beliefs along with modern practices. The chapters are told alternatively from the point of view of the wife, then from the husband. I think we all agreed it is a very moving story.

May - The Wife by Meg Wolitzer

Some of us sent emails, some joined a Zoom meeting and some did both. The book is about a wife who is a talented writer but her husband puts his name as the author of her books. He's also a persistently unfaithful womaniser. He receives accolades for 'his' writing whilst over time she becomes disappointed and disillusioned. We had differing views as to what degree the wife's disillusionment was a result of her not taking more control of her life earlier on, and how much her husband was to blame.

Eastern regional Library has been very helpful and found ways of supplying us with bookgroup sets, despite the difficulties lately! SCCC bookgroup currently has no vacancies, please contact Julie - 0422 424 694 if you're interested in joining. In the meantime, all our books are available to borrow from Eastern Regional Library.

> " I am a retired Dentist now. However, when I was younger I had a prominent public profile because of my advocacy of water fluoridation. I received a number of calls from radio shock-jocks asking my opinion of various dental matters. One radio announcer rang me and asked what I thought of 'Do it Yourself' dentistry. The example he mentioned was using 'super glue' to fix a fractured incisor. I replied that it was difficult to have an opinion about whether the glue was any good or not as I could never get the patient's lips apart. 'Thank you doctor music please'

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder" ...as they say.

We all have a favourite flower, but every so often somebody gives you a bunch of flowers that takes your breath away. This bunch was my breath taken away. The camera (or at least my camera) can never pick up the real colours. The dark green buds covered in fine downy black hair opened up to release brilliant gold and orange rice-paper petals. As the flowers opened more and more they became bewitchingly beautiful, exposing the pistil and the crown of fine gold-dust pollen laden stamens – an invitation to pollinate the next generation. The flowers stayed this way for many days before abandoning hope, then slowly dropped the tissue-thin petal skirts, while I kept wishing they would never die. In twelve days this stunning bunch of flowers was gone, and I am the poorer now. My daughter-in-law will try to recreate the image with her talent and the artist's brush, but truly there's nothing more satisfying than to watch, and be part of nature's live stage. I shall forever love gold and orange poppies. (If anyone would like to plant Iceland Poppies in their garden, Jane Calder has seedlings to spare. Please phone 59653272).

Pest – Cabbage aphid.

Cabbage aphids attack all plants in the Brassicaceae family, such as cabbage, turnip, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and weed species like wild turnip and wild mustard. They feed by sucking plant juices. Severe infestations cause wilting and stunting in young plants and yellowing, curling and leaf distortion in older plants.

A native of Europe, this pest is now found in all states of Australia. Cabbage aphids typically form tight clusters which are greyish to light green in colour and covered with a mealy, waxy substance. The massed aphids seen in late spring and summer are usually wingless females which produce fully formed young. At the end of the season winged males and females which mate, are produced. The females lay eggs that survive the winter and hatch in spring to begin the cycle again.

Prevention – Sow vegies early so plants begin flowering before aphid numbers peak. Control weeds by removing them as they appear. The best control of cabbage aphids is biological control – encourage the parasitic wasps that kill aphids and turn them into bronzed 'mummies'. When you find a cabbage aphid cluster wait a week or so for the parasitic wasps to do their work and look for those mummies on your plants. A few aphids can be squashed or hosed off with a strong spray of water. Try using garlic spray as a repellent. Only use insecticides as a last resort as you can also kill beneficial bugs.

Natural enemies are parasites, and predators such as hoverfly larvae, lady birds and lacewing larvae.

Hope everyone is doing well in 'lock-down' and many positives are coming out of it for you. The world as we knew it will never be the same again, but with the random kindness, caring and respect for others, so abundant now, would we really want it to be the same again? Stay safe. Noela.

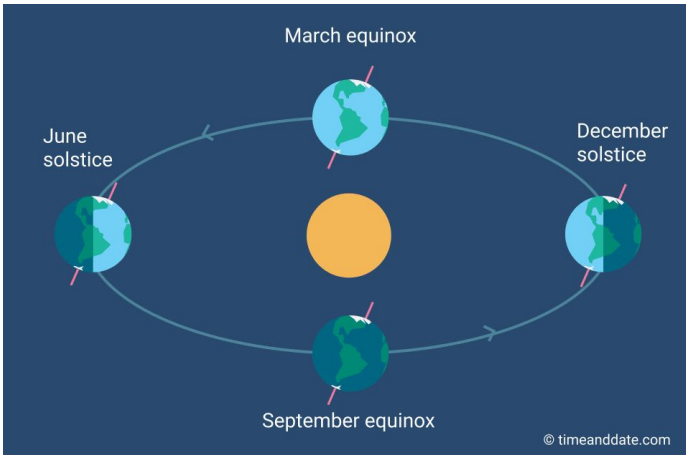
Summer and Winter Solstice - Winter solstice 2020 will be at 7:43 am on Sunday, 21 June

The summer solstice occurs once a year in December when the Sun's track across the Australian sky reaches its highest point. It is the day that has the most daylight hours of any in the year. The summer solstice usually occurs on 22 December, but can occur between 21 and 23 December. The winter solstice is the day of the year that has the least daylight hours of any in the year and usually occurs on 22 June but can occur between 21 and 23 June.



Sunrise, sunset and daylight hours

An interesting idiosyncrasy relating to the summer solstice is that it does not feature the day with the earliest sunrise and latest sunset as is commonly expected. Similarly, on the winter solstice, the sunrise is not the latest and the sunset is not the earliest. However, this day does have the least amount of daylight hours. Because the path of the Earth around the Sun is an ellipse, not a circle, and because the Earth is off-centre on its axis, these combined phenomena can create up to several minutes difference between solar and mean time. Around the date of summer solstice, these effects make the Sun appear to move slightly slower than expected when measured by a watch or clock. As a result, the earliest sunrise occurs before the date of the summer solstice, and the latest sunset happens after the summer solstice. For the same reasons, around the winter solstice, the time of sunrise continues to get later in the days after the solstice. - www.ga.gov.au

Steels Creek Tennis Club

SCTC is open for business again, but with restrictions on the number of players who can attend. The full "Return to Play Policy" for the tennis club is available as a PDF download from our website. In a nutshell; Council has not allowed the use of the club rooms and toilets yet. The courts are available for use by members and their guests, but we must know who is using them and when. Prior to use, the member must complete the Booking Form (also available from the website) and submit it to the Secretary. For now, Lindy Montell's Monday ladies and the Sunday afternoon socials are the only scheduled uses. We'll be working on the Friday family nights when the state of emergency restriction allows. "Senior" and "Family" members may use the courts by booking.

To encourage more use by the community, most membership fees are being reduced for the coming membership year starting 1 July 2020. Family memberships will be $90, Senior memberships will be $35, Junior memberships $20 and Social memberships still $10. The membership year runs through June 30. To play on the courts, you must be a Family, Senior, or Junior member, except for Open Days. To have a court key, you must be a Family or Senior member. Thank you for your continued support.

Vale Margaret Houston

With great sadness we report the recent death of Margaret Houston and send our love and condolences to John. Both John and Margaret have been long-standing members of the Steels Creek Community and contributed to many of the activities of the Centre. For several years they coordinated a very active Bushwalking Group with monthly outings to local and not-so-local places. Regularly, 30 or more people would turn up to one of these outings.

Margaret was an inspiring artist with great talent. She mastered several different media and her work was exhibited in exhibitions locally and in established galleries in Melbourne. She was one of the founders of the Yarra Glen Art Show and took a leading role in the management of many of the resulting Yarra Glen Art Shows.

This painting is of John and Margaret's garden pond and the surrounding flowering wattles as seen from their beautiful house on The Crest off Valley Road. They loved the bush and their garden there reflected this love. I have a lasting memory of Margaret in her little, pale green VW beetle off to some painting site near or far.

Margaret's life was full and rewarding, she was a good friend to many and we will miss her very much. We send our love and support to John.

The Weather Report by Barry Sheffield

Rainfall has once again dominated the weather pattern over the last two months. In April our rainfall was 89 mm above average and in May it was 11 mm above. We are now 265 mm above average for the year to date. By the end of April the Melbourne weather station had recorded, in the first four months this year, more rainfall than the total for the whole of last year. In the five months to the end of May, it has been the second wettest January to May period recorded for Melbourne. In early May we had a high river event with the maximum height being 4.1 metres on the 4th. The river height was actually above 3 metres on seven consecutive days and I cannot recall an event of that number of days before. Temperature wise the mean maximum temperature for Melbourne for April was 1° below average and the mean minimum was 0.8° above average. Coldstream temperatures for April were 1.6° below average for the mean maximum and 1.2° above average for the mean minimum. May temperatures for Melbourne were 0.3° below average for the mean maximum and equal to average for the mean minimum. Coldstream temperatures for May were 0.7° below average for the mean maximum and 0.5° below average for the mean minimum.
